Recently, Brazil's National Civil Aviation Agency ("ANAC") granted the Experimental Flight Authorization Certificate ("CAVE") to EHang´s EH216-S pilotless eVTOL, enabling trial operations with the aircraft system in Brazil. Within the framework of ANAC's CAVE certificate, EHang and local partner and operator Gohobby are carrying out extensive trial and test campaigns for the EH216-S in close collaboration with ANAC and the Brazilian Airspace Control Department ("DECEA"). These initiatives are designed to promote the development of Concepts of Operations and Unmanned Aircraft Traffic Management ("UTM") systems and services, paving the way for safe and efficient UAM deployment throughout Brazil.
